

Our Firm

Rosenblatt & Company

Building
A Relationship

Quality

Creativity

Global Capabilities,
Local Relevance

Introduction

Whether you are entering a new and challenging market or simply looking to protect your existing business operations in a changing environment, good decision making requires sound, practical advice and thoughtful counsel.

For that advice to be useful, it should be clear, reliable and timely. For it to be relevant, it should be based on a clear understanding of your business and your goals. However, to be superior, it should also be the product of creative and flexible thinking.

We believe in providing advice to a limited number of clients to whom we can offer a personalized service, built on our dedication to service and with whom we can work to develop a long-term professional relationship.

While providing a professional service, we also recognize that our clients' business cannot be separated from the human dimension in which they operate. Building a personal rapport with all of the people involved in a transaction and earning their trust, helps promote a nonadversarial environment where cooperation and compromise can create solutions for our clients that might otherwise not exist.

Building a Relationship

We believe in building lasting relationships with our clients. Building a relationship with a client involves investing time and effort to better understand the client's business objectives, their strategy and approach and how they stand out from other companies in their industry or market. It also means clearly understanding the business challenges they face and how they have approached similar challenges in the past.

By taking a long-term relationship approach with our clients and investing time, effort and energy in understanding their business, we place ourselves in a position to anticipate our client's needs. We can then proactively engage them on opportunities, caution them on potential pitfalls and challenges, provide unique insight into how new developments are likely to affect them and suggest alternatives in response to rapidly changing challenges as they emerge. We think of this as part of the benefits of a relationship.

Quality

Quality service is a critical part of everything that we do. It is the result that a professional approach that commits more resources, closer supervision of all aspects of our work by senior counsel, training programs for all of our staff and a commitment to customer satisfaction. Experience shows that this commitment to quality brings quantifiably better results.

Creativity

Creative Thinking Makes the Difference.

We believe that there are always opportunities to find new solutions to old problems. Developments in other markets around the world can bring our clients fresh ideas and unexpected benefits. Looking at problems from a new perspective can often generate new opportunities. Working with clients to exploit these opportunities serves to provide benefits in any one of a number of ways from reduced costs to improved approaches or expanded businesses opportunities to reduced risks and uncertainty.

Global Capabilities, Local Relevance

Proven Quality International Approach.

Our unique international approach to solving local problems, allows us to find new ways to help our clients. We focus on bringing to bear the in-depth understanding of local culture and practice within a framework of broad international experience.

Using our extensive network of relationships with leading lawyers in the major financial and business centers we can provide clients with support around the world. As a result, clients receive seamless, uniform, responsive and commercially relevant advice for their projects, whether in one, or across several, international locations with the quality and responsiveness that our clients have come to expect.

Rosenblatt & Company